

CENTRALIZED RETURNS

channels returned checks into a seamless process, while reducing returned check fees

Streamline Returned Check Process

EFT Network's Centralized Returns enables companies with multiple banking relationships to easily consolidate unpaid and returned checks at a single bank. Banks charge a high returned check fee for every returned check they process. Our Centralized Returns system channels returned checks into a seamless process which can significantly reduce or even eliminate returned check fees.

EFT Network centralizes returned checks with a customized endorsement stamp, designating EFT Network for processing, instead of your bank. We provide customized verbiage for the endorsement stamp, or by working with a merchant's data processing department or software vendor to help create the proper endorsement via their point-of-sale equipment.

Our Centralized Returns service offers many features and benefits, including full data capturing, customized reporting, next day online reporting of returned data, and check images that can reduce the risk of your business to accept returned checks.
